Class History

On August 7, 1961, a group of 27 freshmen entered the doors of Highland High School. The members of our class were: Mary Delp, James Draves, Beverly Eggers, Moon Esser, Joyce Gottschall, Avi Gruener, Janet Harkke, Marsha Weeks, Sharon Hocke, John Hoppe, Lucy Jett, Mary Kehler, Karen Klem, Julie Kowland, Linda Kroll, Lyle Smelzer, Floyd Schwingle, Mary Sippola, Karen Sippola, Karen Thomas, Virgil Thomas, Melva Sommerville, Larry Weissenburger, Martha Wolfe, Sandi Williams, and Joanne Yager.

The first big event of our first school days was orientation. It was quite an ordeal but we all lived through it. During our second semester we lost Marsha Hocke and Judy Tech. The year ended quietly with a picnic on the school grounds for everyone.

The summer passed quickly and when we came back to school in the fall, we learned that we had a new classmate, Dolores Hall. During our second semester we lost John Schuetz and gained Merle Janzen. Our school year ended with a picnic near Highland.

School resumed again in August and we found that we had lost Mary Sippola and Larry Weissenburger. The highlight of our former year was the prom with Merle Janzen reigning as King and Dolores Hall as Queen. Our theme was All Of A sudden My Heart Sings. Music was furnished by Armond Fasebore and his orchestra. Our year ended quietly.

During the summer, we were all saddened by the death of our beloved classmate, Lyle Smelzer, who drowned while on a vacation in Northern Wisconsin.

When we came back to school for our last year, we found that we had lost Karen Sippola and Melva Sommerville. On September 1, we held our fair, with Floyd Schwingle and Julie Kowland as King and Queen. Our class flag is being planned for early spring.

We have all enjoyed our high school days and are truly thankful for them.

Class Prophecy

May 15, 1970

Dear Judie,

I just received your letter and I am very glad to hear that Bill Jr. is over the hump. My music school is still running but I don't think it would be since I have been away for almost a week. I'm sorry I didn't make it to Highland.

I'm glad to hear that you saw Bev Eggers. I hope she makes a success of the Crystal Ballroom. Remember when we were kids? They used to call it Riverview then.

Oh, I must tell you about my trip! I left last Monday morning on the Eastbound American Pioneer. My first stop was Faris where I was to change rockets to go to New York. Since I had some time to spend between rockets I decided to have my hair styled and cut. The stewardess suggested Do and Di's Beauty Salon. When I got there the beautician was Deoris Faull. I then took the Milwaukee bound Gladiator. We had to stop in New York because our rocket broke down. The mechanic looked familiar. He had on an old brown leather jacket with a faded white eagle on the back. When he turned around I recognized him, it was Butch Damon. He is now a mechanic with the American Rocket Corporation. After I finished talking with him, I called a cab. The driver was Martha Wolfe, owner of the cab company whose motto was "if you drink, ride with us."

After securing a hotel room I decided to watch Television before dinner. I turned on Lawrence Welk and saw that Joyce Gottschall was starring on his show. As Joyce was singing the Champagne Waltz, the scenery collapsed and there was Norman Tomas blowing the Champagne bubbles. The announcer said that Norman is an experienced bubble blower. Later on in the evening as I was reading the newspaper, I ran across a picture of Sharon Hooks. The caption said Fran Sanders. I always thought she would make a good Ann Sanders. The next morning I arrived in Milwaukee. I had Joanne's phone number so I called her. She asked me to meet her at the National Brewery Association where she is working as a taster. We had a nice visit and she told me that Mary Lynn Delp is living in Rockford, Illinois and is married to one of our former high school practice teachers. She also told me that Eldon Esser is manager of the Braves. Before leaving Milwaukee, I saw the former Janet Hoernke and her husband. He is a General in the Army, and from what Janet told me they're raising an army of their own.

I was then called to Washington to direct a concert which was a command performance for Madame President of the United States, Sarah A. Williams, and the members of her cabinet. The only ones I knew were Secretary of Agriculture, John Poppe, the Head Accountant of the Treasury, Pat Roum, and, of course, Sarah.

On the way back to the moon, I read in a magazine that Lloyd Swingle is President of the Indianapolis Speedway Association. His occupation fits him, he always did drive fast. I also read that Virgil Tomas has invented a new type of automobile horn. It goes "Hip, Hip" instead of "Beep, Beep."

By the way, Judie, did you know that Jim Draves has a gambling Casino here on the moon? It is called the "Dude." He is currently featuring the starlet known as Miss Lonely Curator - the one and only Mary Richter.

That's all the news I know for now. Do write and tell me all the Highland news.

Love,

Ania
